River City Food Bank’s (RCFB) mission is to alleviate hunger in Sacramento County by providing healthy, emergency food and other assistance, offering referrals and promoting self-sufficiency through a variety of support services. RCFB helps people avoid a crisis, such as homelessness, and work toward self-reliance by providing a short-term food supply when they are unable to meet basic living expenses.

Ora is a senior living in Sacramento. A series of hardships led to Ora having to make difficult choices- between paying her bills and buying groceries. There were times when Ora had a single can of soup left in her cupboard. Feeling hopeless, she reached out to River City Food Bank for help.

After connecting with RCFB’s CalFresh Outreach team, she felt a sense of relief. “The staff were so friendly, and no one judged me or made me feel guilty. Right away I trusted them.” With CalFresh benefits, Ora can purchase the food that was most meaningful for her and stretch her benefits further by coming to the food bank when she needs to.

Alla moved here four years ago with her family from the Ukraine. She takes care of her children and mother at home, while her husband works full-time as a medical transport driver.

With family of 7, their one income is not enough to cover all the necessities. They found out about River City Food Bank from other families in their neighborhood and have been coming regularly for the past two years. Alla is thankful for the help she gets when money is tight, enjoys the diverse food she receives and appreciates that people treat her kindly during her visit.

Frederick has seen a lot of change and trauma in his life. A native of Sacramento, he left for college as a young man and then served his country in the Army.

Today, Frederick is struggling back on his feet after experiencing homelessness. He is trying hard to find employment, but without a stable place to live it has been difficult. The food he receives at the food bank makes it possible for him save income and concentrate on finding affordable housing and a steady job.

Frederick has been coming to River City Food Bank for years and has recently met with the CalFresh Outreach team to get enrolled in CalFresh benefits to supplement his grocery income. Despite the challenges he has faced, he remains hopeful.
