MEET YOUR NEIGHBOR

"When I have a healthy meal or snack, I can concentrate better. I have more energy, and I can study."

Korey

to Korey's Story

When you ask 21-year-old Korey why River City Food Bank matters, his answer comes without hesitation:

"Food is study power."

For much of Korey's life, stability felt out of reach. After experiencing instability at home as a teenager, he entered foster care. Later, while attending college, he experienced homelessness and lived in his car with his beloved cat, Wilson.

Even then, Korey kept working toward a different future. He reconnected with his father, enrolled at American River College (ARC) and began his pursuit to enroll in law school and become an attorney.

Through student support services at ARC, Korey met RCFB's CalFresh Outreach Director. She helped him apply for CalFresh benefits and introduced him to River City Food Bank. Soon, Korey was picking up fresh produce and healthy groceries each week.

Having reliable food did not solve every challenge Korey faced, but it gave him one less thing to worry about. Having consistent access to nutritious groceries helped him stretch his limited budget. He was able to direct more money toward housing and bring a healthy lunch to campus – giving him energy, focus and a sense of normalcy.

Today, Korey is working two jobs while living in transitional housing for former foster youth. He is carefully saving for a place of his own and continuing his education.

Step by step, Korey is building the stability he has worked so hard to find.

River City Food Bank is one part of that journey, and you make that possible. Your support helps provide the healthy food that creates a foundation for whatever comes next – because no one should be hungry.
